Description

There is more to Germany than beer, BMWs, and Bayern Munich. In this class, we will explore the history of Germany since 1740, however, our focus will be the 20th century. We will interrogate the relationship between politics, culture, economics and society to understand Germany’s position within Europe and the world throughout the last 150 years. The class pays special attention to: the making of the German Empire and its collapse in World War I, the interwar period and the short-lived Weimar Republic, National Socialism and the Third Reich, World War II and the Holocaust, the two Germanies (East and West) during the Cold War, the Berlin Republic since 1989 and Germany’s role the European Union today. We will not take a parochial national approach but investigate German history in relation to its European neighbors and its friends and foes around the world.

Apart from reading secondary literature, students are expected to engage in class discussions and work with primary sources, movies, documentary films, short video clips and conduct their own online research.

Learning objectives:

✓ Assessing secondary literature
✓ Analyzing and interpreting primary sources
✓ Critical use of feature and documentary films
✓ Critical inquiries into the representation of history (museums, memorials, etc.)
✓ Understanding comparative, transnational and entangled history
✓ Informed online research
✓ Leading group discussions effectively
✓ Crafting comprehensive minutes/ meeting report
Required Reading:

Optional:
Good Bye, Lenin! (2003), directed by Wolfgang Becker.

COVID-19 PROTOCOL

If you found it difficult to develop a proper and effective routine in the spring, please consult the CER’s student guideline: https://cer.jhu.edu/page/preparing-to-take-courses-remotely. Please do not hesitate to reach out to me to discuss any challenges. Try to establish a pattern and reserve class time for... well... class.

I hate to say it but lying in bed during class is unacceptable. A modicum of professionalism applies. Being a study is your daytime job.

It is not a problem if a family member barges in on you during class. It happens. Same goes for cats and dogs (and whatever sort of pets you have) as long as they do not become a constant distraction. Try to keep pet duties to a minimum for the 75 minutes we meet.

If you have to watch younger siblings during class time, please let me know. We can make accommodations for that.

I understand that turning your camera on might be either impossible or uncomfortable for some. You are not obliged to have it on. However, to have a proper conversation in class and to interact with peers (especially with those who have hearing difficulties), I would like to encourage all to have your camera on. You are free to choose your background (with a sense of professionalism, please).

The reasons are multifold: As you have probably realized by now, you are more attentive and focused, and thus will learn more easily, when you can actually see your peers. Communicating with random voices from the off is not conducive to a proper learning environment. We are not a random collection of people thrown together but rather a learning community. Thus, while everyone is mindful that individual circumstances may vary, I would like to ask you to attend class with your camera on, if possible.

I am aware of the option to choose pass/fail as your final grade. Please sit tight as policy details are still being hashed out. I will make adjustment as soon as we know the details.

If you have to take this class asynchronously, please let the instructors know. We will provide zoom recordings of the lectures and adjust the assignments accordingly.

If you find yourself in a hostile or adverse environment, please take good care of yourself. If you sense that something is not right, do not wait, trust your instinct and get assistance. Do not hesitate to reach out to the Counseling Center during regular working hours 410-516-8278. After hours: press 1.

Grading:

25% Class participation
25% Reports
25% Quizzes
25% Primary source analysis

Assignments:

Class Participation: 25%

Make sure you show up to zoom prepared and on time. You are expected to engage with the instructors, assigned material and your fellow students in break out rooms. Common rules of courtesy apply.

At the beginning of each class, we recap the main points of our previous session. If you hesitate to speak out in larger groups feeling unprepared or inadequate this as an excellent opportunity to contribute to the general discussion. Just revisit your notes from the last meeting before class. Whenever you have questions or need clarification, please speak up.

Attendance is the most basic requirement for a college education. If you miss more than four classes unexcused/without legitimate reasons (such as conflicting athletic, ROTC, academic obligations) you will not receive a passing grade.

Reports: 25%
Throughout the semester, please submit five reports on a class of your choosing. YOU decide when you take care of this assignment. Only exception: please do not write on more than two consecutive classes.

Introduce the topic(s), summarize the lecture, conversations and the key findings/ main arguments.

Please use proper format (provide basic information: who, what, when and where – think of it as resolutions & findings focused minutes of a meeting).

Two pages max, single space (body text, proper formatting please).

You have three days post-lecture to submit each report.

Quizzes: 25%

We will write at least six pop quizzes in the course of the term. The lowest grade will be dropped.

For each week, you will find reading questions on blackboard. The quizzes will be identical to one or two of those. Quizzes are “open book”: you are encouraged to copy-paste the response from your notes. You will have ten minutes in class to submit and tweak them online.

If you miss class for legitimate reasons (e.g. conflicting academic obligations) and inform the instructor in advance, you are free to submit your reading notes by email. In case of a pop quiz, they will count in lieu of the in-class quiz.

There will be no make up quizzes.

Primary Source Analysis: 25%

Pick a primary source from the list provided on blackboard and write a proper primary source analysis. We will discuss the details and expectations in class and provide a checklist on blackboard.

Make sure to properly introduce the source and author. Identify the audience, the author’s intention, possible biases and the author’s message. Be very clear about the historical context in which the source has been produced. Carefully differentiate between the history that has informed author and source prior to its production and the aftermath and consequence following its production and reception. (max. 6 pages plus bibliography)
Please declare your choice of primary source by October 20, 2020 EOD. You will find the journal “Primary Source Analysis” on blackboard. Please enter your choice and any questions here. Please add the literature and sources you wish to consult to complete this assignment. The content of your journal entry is only accessible to you, the instructor and the TA.

Deadline: October 28, 2020, 11.59 pm. (blackboard turnitin assignment)

Written Assignments - Formal Requirements

- Margins not smaller than 1” all around, 12 pt. font size, font: Calibri, Arial or similar.
- Add your name and basic course information
- Add a title to any written assignment
- Add page numbers
- List of references (separate page)
- file names: ALWAYS add your last name (no spaces in file names)
- check the rules for academic integrity

General policies

Absences
Absences are excused for illness, religious observance, participation in certain university activities, and other circumstances described in the university’s policies and must be explained to your instructor at least 4 hours before class. If you miss more than four classes unexcused/without legitimate reason, you will not pass this class.

Academic Integrity
The strength of the university depends on academic and personal integrity. In this course, you must be honest and truthful. Ethical violations include cheating on exams, plagiarism, reuse of assignments, improper use of the Internet and electronic devices, unauthorized collaboration, alteration of graded assignments, forgery and falsification, lying, facilitating academic dishonesty, and unfair competition. See Ethics Board Web Site (http://ethics.jhu.edu) for more information.

Make sure to check the rules for Academic Integrity. Violations will be reported.

Accommodations
Accommodations will be made for those who need them. Please come talk with me in the first two weeks of the semester to discuss your needs. Any student with a disability who may need accommodations in this class must obtain an accommodation letter from Student Disability Services, 385 Garland, (410) 516-4720, studentdisabilityservices@jhu.edu.

Communication
I read and respond to email within 24 hours during regular business hours, 9-5, Monday through Friday. Please use proper formatting and address when writing your email.

Mental Health
The University is aware that many students experience anxiety, depression, and other emotional challenges. If you would like to speak to a professional counselor, please visit the campus Counseling Center. Information is available on the Counseling Center's website: https://studentaffairs.jhu.edu/counselingcenter/

Screen Policy COVID-Adjusted
Please put all mobile devices except the one you are using away. Turn off notifications and sounds on all other devices.
