Israel and Palestine from 1967 to the Present: A Current and Entangled History

Through intensive and extensive reading, we will explore contemporary Israeli society, politics, and culture; contemporary Palestinian society, politics, and culture under occupation; and the historical processes that have shaped both societies/communities and their ongoing entanglement.

Course Requirements: This seminar stands or falls based on your reading, preparation, discussion and participation. I appreciate that each of you may have a distinctive approach to voicing views and analyses in class, but in order to make sure that everyone has a chance to fully participate, I will regularly and systematically call on students during class discussion. You must complete the reading assignments listed below a given session must be completed by the date under which they appear.

The final decision on any grade derives from my global assessment of your work and cannot be quantified exactly. Roughly speaking, however, the breakdown is as follows:

- Participation in discussion (and mini-presentations): 25%
- 3 formal presentations of scholarly articles, submitted as 2-page papers: 15% each for 45%
- 8-page final paper: 30%

No extensions will be granted without my prior permission, and late papers will be graded lower at the rate of one grade-step per day (A to A-, A- to B+, etc). Needless to say, complete honesty and probity in your work is a must. For information, see http://ethics.jhu.edu

Textbooks (books we will be reading all or most of and which it will make sense to acquire for yourself):

- Yael Berda, Living Emergency
- Etgar Keret, The Seven Good Years
- Gershon Gorenberg, The Unmaking of Israel
- Ian Black, Enemies and Neighbors
- Dov Waxman, The Israeli-Palestinian Conflict: What Everyone Needs to Know
- Sari Nusseibeh, What is a Palestinian State Worth (Harvard)

* = other readings not in the above books which have been scanned and are available on library e-Reserves

Accommodations and Wellness:
Any student with a disability who may need accommodations in this class must obtain an accommodation letter from Student Disability Services, (410) 516-4720, studentdisabilityservices@jhu.edu

These are difficult times to be a student. If you are struggling with anxiety, stress, depression or other mental health related concerns, please consider using the JHU mental and emotional health resources. The resources are described and can be accessed at https://wellness.jhu.edu/resources/mental/

Ethics Policy: Needless to say, complete honesty and probity in your work is a must. The strength of the university depends on academic and personal integrity. In this course, you must be honest and truthful. Ethical violations include cheating on exams, plagiarism, reuse of assignments, improper use of the Internet and electronic devices, unauthorized collaboration, alteration of graded assignments, forgery and falsification, lying, facilitating academic dishonesty, and unfair competition. Report any violations you witness to the instructor. You may consult the associate dean of student conduct (or designee) by calling the Office of the Dean of Students at 410-516-8208 or via email at integrity@jhu.edu. For more information, see the Homewood Student Affairs site on academic ethics.

Family accommodation policy: You are welcome to bring a dependent family member to class on occasional days when your responsibilities require it (for example, if emergency child care is unavailable, or for health needs of a relative). In fact, you may see my children in class on days when their school is closed. Please be sensitive to the classroom environment, and if your family member becomes uncomfortably disruptive, you may leave the classroom and return as needed.

Classroom climate: We are committed to creating a classroom environment that values the diversity of experiences and perspectives that all students bring. Everyone here has the right to be treated with dignity and respect. I believe fostering an inclusive climate is important because research and my experience show that students who interact with peers who are different from themselves learn new things and experience tangible educational outcomes. Please join me in creating a welcoming and vibrant classroom climate. Note that you should expect to be challenged intellectually by me, the TAs, and your peers, and at times this may feel uncomfortable. Indeed, it can be helpful to be pushed sometimes in order to learn and grow. But at no time in this learning process should someone be singled out or treated unequally on the basis of any seen or unseen part of their identity. If you ever have concerns in this course about harassment, discrimination, or any unequal treatment, or if you seek accommodations or resources, I invite you to share directly with me or the TAs. I promise that we will take your communication seriously and to seek mutually acceptable resolutions and accommodations. Reporting will never impact your course grade. You may also share concerns with the department chair (Prof. Peter Jelavich, jelavich@jhu.edu) the Director of Undergraduate Studies (Prof. Erin Rowe, erowe1@jhu.edu) the Assistant Dean for Diversity and Inclusion (Darlene Saporu, dsaporu@jhu.edu), or the Office of Institutional Equity (oie@jhu.edu). In handling reports, people will protect your privacy as much as possible, but faculty and staff are required to officially report information for some cases (e.g. sexual harassment).

Religious holidays: Religious holidays are valid reasons to be excused from class. Students who must miss a class or an examination because of a religious holiday must inform the instructor as early in the semester as possible in order to be excused from class or to make up any work that is missed. If possible, try to avoid scheduling exams for major holidays. More information may be found at the Religious and Spiritual Life website (https://studentaffairs.jhu.edu/religious-spiritual-life/religious-holy-days/).
